

DE MOIT ON STAND

Sedgwick County Witness
Tells About Jester.

WENT TO SUNDAY SCHOOL

Defense Makes Point on Gates
Paying Witnesses' Expenses

The fourth day of the Jester trial began yesterday morning at New London, Mo. The prisoner looked refreshed and showed no trace of the ordeal he went through on the previous day.

John DeMott of Valley Center, this county, testified that he had lived there twenty years and had known Jester for thirty years. He said Jester lived with his wife and seven children and that he never knew him as Hill. He had around his place in 1870 a two-horse "jolt" wagon and a buffalo calf. The witness said Jester farmed and also worked a little. He attended Sabbath school.

J. C. Temple of Renick, Mo., testified that he saw Jester and Gates at his town in 1871. Jester exhibited the buffalo calf there and took up a collection. This is supposed to be a short time before Gates was killed.

Alexander Jester's daughter Alice arrived from Norman, O. T., yesterday. In company with her mother, she passed the jail where her father is confined, without stopping.

Joseph B. Delaney, an old citizen of Monroe county, testified to the truth of the story that his wife made him get up at their home near Middle Grove and a light in January, 1871, stating that she heard cries of distress. Mr. Delaney said that the next morning he went to the camp and asked the old man there what the noise meant. He said Jester told him he had choked young Gates while he (Jester) was dreaming. The witness today pointed to Jester as the same man who told him this story that morning in January, 1871.

Ex-Governor Charles P. Johnston of St. Louis, one of the chief attorneys for the state in the trial of Alexander Jester, charged with the killing of Gilbert Gates, brother of John W. Gates, made a statement as to the reasons which led to the prosecution by Gates of the aged prisoner. Said he:

"The Gates family had long since given up all intention of ever pushing the case of the murder of their son to trial. One year or more ago this man was forced again to the attention of the Gates family under the most extraordinary circumstances by Jester's sister, Mr. John W. Gates told us he felt it a duty to reveal to the memory of his dead brother, a duty he owed the state, and above all, a duty he owed his aged parents, to demand a vigorous trial and an unswerving of all the testimony furnished by the trail through four states and knew nearly every act of Alexander Jester for the past thirty years."

Francis Marion Dawson, who lived about four miles east of the Hulin Lane and south of the Park (Ma) road in 1871, took the stand yesterday. He testified that in January, 1871, he met Alexander Jester in this lane. The old man had two rooms and two wagons. They were standing still in the road as a point where the West Madison road. As Mr. Dawson passed by, Jester called him how far it was to a road that he could turn south on. This evidence is considered significant as showing that Jester's transfer from the main thoroughfare was not an accident, but to conceal his alleged crime.

The examination of Charles H. Hightower of Augusta, Ga., resumed Thursday. He said that he and Jester Gates had traveled from Chicago to Wichita a distance of 60 miles. They were on the road about six weeks, stopping at various towns through which they passed. Gilbert Gates was in the company of good health. A little down, not windblown, was on his face. His expression was sweet and mild, a boy calculated to draw people to him.

After staying in Kansas for a while, he got homesick and started back, taking the term that he drove to Kansas. Hightower said: "My wife helped him pack his trunk when he left. I noticed the articles as they were put in and remember his dark blue suit and white-clothed coat and vest, six or eight shirts and underclothing, the same clothes that he left him with. I remember he had an overcoat and cap. He had a gun, watch and chain, pocket-knife, soap and comb, and enough horse feed to last him until he got home; also 10 pounds of jerked buffalo meat, which he was taking back to my folks at St. Charles, Ill., for which I paid him $5. He had some jerked beef of his own. He had a sheepskin dog and some buffalo hides packed in his wagon. I have never since seen Gilbert Gates."

The first time I ever saw Alexander Jester was at his trial at Wichita, before Judge Doolen, in 1871; he lived in Gilbert Gates' vest, which I knew. It had a patch of powder in the vest pocket. He could not button it as it was too small for him. Jester was a larger man than Gates."

On cross-examination witnesses stated that his expenses incurred in attending this trial were to be paid by the prosecution. At this point Mr. Forrester said that he had promised to pay the expenses of all witnesses outside of the state as that was the only way he could get them to come here. There was lively sparring among the lawyers as to whether Jester's conduct could be described by the witness when Jester was not in the witness stand. The objection was overruled, and the witness said that Jester could not speak; he seemed to be paralyzed.

A. A. Gates was recalled and said that when the powder was found in Gilbert's vest pocket he seemed stunned, stupefied and did not answer. Mr. Gates said he had a son in Europe—John W. Gates—who was taking a pleasure trip; that he would have dropped the case five years ago, as he wished to bury all the events connected with his dead boy out of his sight, cherishing only his memory. Here the aged father of the dead boy wept.

P. S. Osborn of Little Rock, Ark., was deputy sheriff of Monroe county in 1871 and took Jester from Wichita to Paris and placed him in jail. He recognized the prisoner as Alexander Jester, had seen him and Gilbert Gates together at Middle Grove the day before the murder.

posed murder, and afterward took Jester to Mexico and delivered him to the sheriff there.

James S. Allen said he heard of a man disappearing at Hulin's Lane near Middle Grove in January, 1871, and he was speaking of as Gilbert Gates. Here Judge Allen was shown maps and photographs. He traced the road on the map and recognized the photographs as scenes along the Hulin Lane, where the murder of Gilbert Gates was said to have been committed.

A part of the country along the road was heavily timbered, he said, and a part was prairie. One could see along the road for a mile or a mile and a half, half way through Hulin's Lane. There was a pool of water in Bee branch where the road crosses, forty feet wide and very deep. There was a saw mill on the ground along the creek. No house except that of Ambrose Hulin could be seen from the Hulin Lane and that was half a mile away.

James Mitchell of Booneville, Mo., said he saw Jester and a young man named Gilbert Gates at his home in January, 1871. Gates was driving a team and his wagon had three deer. Jester had a pair of ponies and a spring wagon. He carried a buffalo calf in a cage in his wagon. Gates said the three deer to Mr. Mitchell for a silver watch and $2.50. The weather being cold, Jester and Gates slept on the kitchen floor that night. Jester remonstrated with Gates for selling the deer for anything but money. Gates refused to sell one of his horses to Mr. Mitchell, saying he was anxious to get home to see his parents. Mitchell said he had talked with Wile and Peterson, detectives a year ago, and the events of meeting with Jester and Gates had been refreshed. Jester's horse did not have a speech.

Frank Joseph Mann saw Alexander Jester and Gilbert Gates on the public road near his house in Cooper county and discussed the case with Mitchell to every all night. They had tips deer and a buffalo calf with them. He knew it was January 12, 1871, because his father had a north pulled that day and in pulling it his jawbone was broken. He recognized Jester by his big ear and his nose.

JULY 25
KANSAS MIDLAND WILL RESOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION.

Will No Doubt be Bought by Frisco Railway Company.

The Kansas Midland Railway company which has for some time been operated by the Frisco road, will be sold at public auction in Wichita on July 25 of this year in the highest bidder. The road, while still in the hands of a receiver, Mr. A. L. Wolf of St. Louis, has been controlled largely by the Frisco people and that road will probably buy it in at the sale. A. J. Davidson, general superintendent of the Frisco, and C. R. Gray, division superintendent of the same road, were in the city yesterday on their regular tour of inspection. The road, if purchased by the Frisco people, will be valuable to that road. At present it is in operation to Ellsworth, Kansas, and on and after July 15, two passenger trains will be run daily between Wichita and that point, the time card to that effect having already been issued.

TO ASTHMA SUFFERERS.
Lawson Oliver of Harrington, Ill., says he was cured of chronic asthma of long standing by FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR. HAS EXHIBITOR'S TICKETS
County Clerk Chain Secures Information Concerning Kansas Exposition. While in Topeka, County Clerk J. B. Chain secured some information concerning the Kansas Exposition which is to be held in Topeka in 1904. The exposition people are already at work on the project and have prepared exhibitors' tickets for those who may desire to prepare exhibits for that event. Mr. Chain brought back a number of the tickets and will have them for the exhibitors from this place. The tickets will be filled out and the exhibit sent in any time from now on. The information on the cards is quite complete and will prove of much value to all of the parties concerned. Among the questions are these: Date of planting; quantity of seed used; method of cultivation; yield per acre; market price; also the average rainfall during the year and whether the ground was irrigated. From all indications the exposition will be a success and Mr. Chain is anxious that Sedgwick county shall be well represented at that time.

WAS A DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

Judge and Mrs. Wall Receive at Their Home Last Night.

One of the most delightful social functions in Wichita society circles for a long period of time was the reception given last night by Judge and Mrs. T. B. Wall at their beautiful home on St. Francis avenue in honor of Colonel and Mrs. Charles P. Lincoln, Mrs. Junkerman, Miss Katherine Junkerman and Mr. Sidney Toler. The interior of the Wall mansion was nicely decorated with carnations, sweet peas and nasturtiums. The large porch was lighted with electric lights and Japanese lanterns. At each end of the porch large frappe bowls were placed and this delicious beverage was served to the guests during the evening. In the dining room and those adjoining, Neapolitan ice cream and cake were served by attendants.

One of the pleasant features of the evening was the program of musical and other numbers rendered by a number of the leading artists of Wichita. Their numbers are as follows:

Piano Duet—(Country Dance).....Nevins Miss Inkman, Miss Daisy.
Baritone Solo—(Benedictine) Stream.....Mr. Caspar Haynes.
Reading.....Miss Mable Millison.
Baritone Solo—.....Wilt
"The Everlasting Light".....Hawley
"Ah, 'Tis a Dream".....Mr. Sidney Toler.

Reading—
"Mr. Traver's First Hunt".....
"The Wonderful Tar Baby".....Richard Harding Davis
"The Wonderful Tar Baby".....Joel Chandler Harris
Miss Katherine Junkerman.

Contralto Solo—
"Love's Trinity".....De Koven
"Dear, When I Gave".....Rogers
Miss Mable Larimer.
"The Miser's Death".....Monologue
Mr. Toler, (by special request).
Misses Jocelyn, Woods and Frohman, accompanists.

Many beautiful gowns were seen during the evening. Mrs. Charles P. Lincoln was gowned in black tulle with duchesse lace and diamonds. Mrs. Junkerman's gown was of black silk with lace. Miss Junkerman wore white silk, decollete and sleeveless. Miss Gertrude Frohman was gowned in black and white silk, low neck. Miss Daisy's gown was of white silk, low neck. The Misses Wood wore white full evening dresses. Miss Larimer was in black lace, decollete and sleeveless and wore scarlet roses. Miss Millison wore a white gown, full evening dress. Mrs. Wall, the charming hostess, was gowned in lilac brocade, full dress, with diamonds. Most all of the guests were in full evening dress. Among those present were:

SHE CHARGES NEGLECT
Mrs. Gladys Dodson Wants Divorce From Forrest Dodson.

A divorce suit, the first of its kind, has been filed in the district court. Mrs. Gladys Dodson brings suit against her husband, Forrest Dodson, and asks that the marriage bonds may be severed. She charges him with gross neglect of duty and claims that he has failed to provide sustenance for her during their wedded life. They were married on the Fourth of July, 1888, but according to the petition have not had much happiness since that time. Adams and Adams are the attorneys for Mrs. Dodson and the case will probably come up during the next term of court.

METTHER WATERLOO

Tammany Braves Fail to Band
Wagon Harry Stewart.

NO ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Constitution to Be Revised and
"There'll Be a Hot Time."

The opposition to Harry Stewart as the Tammany leader failed to materialize at the meeting of the Tammany club last night, and Mr. Stewart is still president of the association, notwithstanding the attempt to behead him. As near as can be learned, Mr. Stewart out-generalized the opposition in every particular, while nothing was done about it, it is said to have been an interesting meeting from beginning to end. The first jump out of the box the members got into a squabble as to the interpretation of the by-laws and constitution. Before any attempt was made to "start something" that would be detrimental to President Stewart several flaws were picked and it was discovered that the organization had been meeting irregularly, and that last night was not the regular meeting at all. This surprise was sprung to the amazement of all present. According to the constitution the regular meeting night for the transaction of business is on the last Friday in each month. Heretofore the club has been meeting on the second and fourth Fridays. All were ignorant of this rule, and it kind of turned things around a little. Under this rule no officers could be elected at last night's meeting and the Tammany braves deferred action until the regular meeting night, when another attempt will be made to unseat President Stewart, but if he has his fences fixed up as elaborately as they were last night the ordeal will be of little significance. The opposition attempted to get the question of election of officers before the house, but every effort failed. Motion to that effect were offered, but in each instance they failed for the want of a second.

After considerable discussion, during which the meeting assumed no definite stand, it was finally agreed by resolution to appoint a committee to revise the constitution and by-laws, believing that they were inadequate to govern the Tammany club at the present age, they having been adopted when the organization was first outlined. President Stewart appointed the following committee: George Young, Judge Charles Davey, George Harp and Fred Johnson.

Upon the selection of this committee depends the fate of Mr. Stewart, and as he had charge of the appointment it is not believed that he did not know what he was doing. The present by-laws call for an election of officers twice each year, and Mr. Stewart's term has expired. The opposition is growing that in the revision the election clause will be repealed and officers elected for one year. This will allow Mr. Stewart to hold over until January and will defeat any effort to relegate him to the political graveyard.

The Tammanyites went to the meeting last night expecting to have a hot time, but aside from a few minor tiffs it was a very tame affair. Postal cards had been sent to the members notifying them that an election of officers would be held. It looked out that there was an organized movement and a determined effort to get the part of someone to turn down Mr. Stewart. Claims were made that he did not treat the Kansas delegation right at the Kansas city convention, and it was whispered about that the notification cards were very significant. How well organized was Stewart's opposition, however, he learned, but it is evident that the president of the club had, by strategic means and manipulation, succeeded in lining up his forces to the extent that he had almost everything his own way at the meeting. However tame the session was, the meeting when the revised constitution was presented and adoption will be lively from the word go.

The blood is strained and purified by kidneys. No hope but while the kidneys are weak and sick for some time. FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE will make healthy kidneys and pure blood. G. Gehring, 60 East Douglas; Geo. Van Warden, 25 North Main; Wichita Drug Co., 110 East Douglas; Gus Saur, 24 East Douglas.

WILL C. ATCHISON DEAD
Well Known Young Newspaper Man Succumbs in Colorado.

Word was received here yesterday that Will C. Atchison, well known in this city, had died at Colorado Springs Thursday night. Mr. Atchison had been ill for some time and only went to Colorado a few weeks ago with the hope of finding health and peace in the mountains. He was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Ida N. Atchison, who was with him until the end. The remains will be placed in the receiving vault at the Maple Grove cemetery.

William C. Atchison was born in Iowa in 1874, and at an early age came with his parents to Conway Springs, where he spent his boyhood days, a time joyous and care-free. He entered school at Conway, coming from there to the Wichita High school, and later entering Kansas University. An earnest student, a scholar, Mr. Atchison took particular interest and pleasure in the study of English and Literature, and early showed proficiency and originality in composition work. After leaving the High school Mr. Atchison did reportorial work for the Eagle, then for the Newton Daily News, for the Hutchinson News, for the Beacon and for the Topeka Capital. He was an ideal reporter for, to his native ability he added real spirit and enthusiasm. After a year spent in Indianapolis he returned to Wichita, again taking work on the Beacon, which he continued until a few months ago.

Mr. Atchison was a general favorite in the social and business circles of this city. As a newspaper man he had rare qualities and a brilliant future was prophesied for him. Tireless energy, great executive ability and a pleasant, agreeable, and characteristic of his work. Combined with these were a genial manner, optimistic views of life and high ideals.

In the society of Wichita Mr. Atchison held a high place and was welcome wherever he went. He was always the social center and the pleasant voice was heard in every gathering. It is impossible to intrude upon the sacred precincts of the home to tell what he was to his widowed mother and fatherless sisters, yet it can be said that the virtues which endeared him to the world appeared in greater fullness and beauty in the home circle.

The character of Mr. Atchison was of high moral standard—he governed his life and actions by the precepts of the Great

MRS. RAY W. HOUSE DEAD

Beautiful Life Passed Away Yesterday Afternoon After Brief Illness.

Mrs. Pearl House, wife of Ray W. House, died yesterday afternoon at the family residence, 60 South Main street. Her death was a sad surprise to her many friends, as she had been ill but a very short time. Her circle of friends in the city was a large one, and all loved her because of her rare Christian character. She was an active member of the Central Christian church, and took an active part in the affairs of the young people of the church. They will miss her in their plans, as she was one of the leaders in their organizations. Her life in the home was one of constant devotion, and her husband has lost a true companion.

The life which has just passed away was only of twenty-six years duration. Her relative live in Humboldt, Kan., and her many friends at that place will mourn her death.

The funeral services will be conducted at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of Rev. A. E. Duffer of the Central Christian church. The remains will be shipped to Humboldt on the evening Santa Fe train, for interment.

Mr. House is a well known business man on North Main street, and has the sympathy of associates and friends during this sad time of affliction.

DEAD AT THE AGE OF 79
John Conway Passes Away at the Home of His Daughter at Viola.

John Conway, an aged gentleman who resided in this county some years ago, died last Thursday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Anna Livingston, near Viola, this county. The deceased was 79 years old and had been sick for some time. His illness was lingering and he spent some time in Colorado in the hopes of regaining his health. Two weeks ago he came here to live with his daughter but his condition gradually became worse and he passed away Thursday night. The funeral occurred yesterday morning and interment was made in Highland cemetery. The deceased was the father of D. L. Conway, Chief of Police of Fort Scott, Kansas, and he was here yesterday attending the funeral.

FEAR HE HAS DROWNED
Walter Delzell, Aged 13 Years Left Home on Fishing Trip Thursday.

Walter Delzell, the 13-year-old son of W. N. Delzell, a huckster who lives in the Palace block on the West Side, left his home Thursday morning to go fishing in the Big Arkansas near the slaughter house north of town. He had not returned last night and his father fears that he has been drowned. He took a trout line with him and was to have been home on the evening of the same day, but he did not appear and yesterday morning, feeling uneasy about him, a search was instituted for him, but without success. The search continued all day and last night with the same result and Mr. Delzell fears that in setting the trout line he ventured too far in the deep water and got into a hole and drowned. This is the only theory that could be advanced as the boy was not in the habit of staying away from home unless his father knew where he was.

Unless he returns this morning Mr. Delzell has announced his intention of dragging the river in the neighborhood of the slaughter house. Young Delzell was formerly a messenger boy in the Western Union service.

ROBBERS ARE FOILED
Masked Men Attempt to Hold Up Frisco Agent at Lorraine.

Word was received at the Frisco office here yesterday morning to the effect that a daring attempt was made Thursday night to rob the depot at Lorraine. The robbers, however, were baffled by the pluck of Station Agent E. J. Simpson, who immediately opened fire from behind the counter and kept the robbers at bay until they were forced to retreat.

About 9 o'clock, just after the passenger train pulled out, Station Agent Simpson was blowing out the light at the ticket window, two masked robbers thrust guns in his face and ordered "Hands up." The weapons frightened him considerably but instead of obeying he dropped behind the ticket window and in some manner got his hands on his revolver which is always kept in readiness for cases of emergency. He immediately opened fire from behind the counter and kept the robbers at bay until they were forced to retreat.

There was a fusillade of bullets from the robbers aimed at Mr. Simpson, but they could not get direct range. After a dozen shots were exchanged the holdups fled from the depot and escaped. A large amount of company money was in the safe and but for the pluck displayed by the agent all would have been taken as the robbers were loaded for bear.

KISMETS ARE VICTORIOUS
Claim the Championship of the City Over the Commercialists.

The Commercial College baseball team went down in defeat for the first time yesterday by the superior batting and base running of the Kismet club, by the score of 19 to 14. The game was interesting from start to finish, the Kismet always being in the lead by a score of two. The Commercialists have claimed the championship of Wichita, but since their defeat yesterday the Kismet are all going around with smiles on their faces and are ready to defend their colors. The feature of the game was Frank Davidson's playing at first base, he not making an error through the entire game. Hingley's three lumps, hit in deep center, was the best hit of the day. Moffat's fielding was, as usual, up to the standard, but he was not so strong at the bat.

The Bentley Blues and the Commercialists will cross bats at the Fair grounds today at 1 o'clock.

ARE BUILDING ELEVATORS
E. K. Neveling Grain Company Preparing to Handle Wheat in this Part of the Country.

In addition to the other elevators in this part of the country the E. K. Neveling Grain company of this city are contemplating putting in a number of new elevators in the wheat territory adjacent to Wichita. Work will be commenced on a building at Cheney in a few days and although it has not yet been decided upon elevators at Norwich and Goodland will also be built. The immense wheat yield in this part of the country has been the means of making the grain men pick up their ears and look out for more storage room, as the elevator accommodation are too limited to supply the large demand that will be made.
